

INSPIRATION

Half-Year Tucked Inside My Folder

CONCEPT: A COLLECTIVE ARCHIVE OF STUDENT PROJECTS

The title is kept simple and direct – it tells what the website is, while “student projects” is highlighted in blue to bring attention to the people and work behind the archive. Instead of introducing the projects through names or categories, I wanted to show the different thoughts and themes behind them – memory, dreams, making, future, technology, repair

The words float around the title like fragments of different projects coming together. The blue highlight on student projects makes the people and their work the focus. I wanted the first screen to feel young, active and a little unpredictable, rather than looking like a formal academic archive.
